

Annamaria Enenajor

Annamaria Enenajor is a partner at Ruby Shiller Enenajor DiGiuseppe, Barristers where she practices criminal defence and constitutional law. She graduated from McGill Faculty of Law in 2012 as the David L. Johnson gold medalist. From 2012 to 2013, she clerked at the Supreme Court of Canada for Justice Richard Wagner. She then practiced litigation in the New York office of an international law firm, where she focused on defending government enforcement actions. Ms. Enenajor is a strong public advocate for civil rights and criminal justice reform in Canada. She frequently writes, consults and speaks to the media about these issues. Ms. Enenajor is also the founder and Director of the Campaign for Cannabis Amnesty, a not-for-profit group lobbying the federal government to expunge criminal records related to simple cannabis possession offences. She has received numerous awards and recognitions for her public advocacy work, including being named one of the 50 most influential Torontonians of 2018 by Toronto Life magazine and one of the 32 Women of the Year in 2018 by Chatelaine.
